Weather Indications.
WASHINGTON, Dec. 17.—Indications for
Tuesday: Rain, followed by fair, colder weather.

A VERY SIGNIFICANT THREAT.

All friends of decency could wish that the new assortment of Cleveland scandals might be consigned to the heap of political rubbish that the public cheerfully commits to the flames after election. This might have happened if the New York Times had not stirred it up. The Times, however, had the fairness to admit that the scandals were of Democratic origin, a very proper way of disposing of them, for it would have left the quarrel to the Democrats exclusively as to whether Cleveland was defeated by these scandals or his free trade message. Not till Mrs. Whitney took occasion to speak was there any intimation that a part of the blame might be laid upon Republican shoulders. That lady charged that both Senator Ingalls and Chaney M. Dewey had repeated them. These gentlemen have uttered denials that are certainly as unqualified and positive as can be made, and Ingalls has further challenged the veracity of the lady and the propriety of her conduct. But these denials and counter-claims pale into insignificance before the challenge of the New York Mail and Express, whose editor is Col. Elliott F. Shepard, a member of the Vanderbilt family. The Mail and Express is thoroughly angry at Mrs. Whitney's charges, and threatens new developments if further attempt is made to implicate Republicans. If this attempt to "unwarrantably scatter dirt" is renewed, it proposes to draw upon its pigeon hole. "They must call off their dogs or we may let loose our tigers," is its ominous language. "The charming lady of one of the Secretaries, good soul, could not know of these social crimes which we were vainly urged to publish, giving names, dates, houses, night hours, conversations, intrigues, carriages, negotiators, liaisons, loon companions, ruins, suicides, in regard to various persons now and lately high in national official life, which would shock the country and cover their principals with irreparable blot." The paper further asserts that the nature of its pigeon-hole budget "has long been well understood in Newspaper Row at Washington, in parts of Cincinnati and New York. It has been hidden by the gallantry of the Republican press, but a character for the guilty can not be established at the expense of the guileless." And it warns Mrs. Whitney, "the charming lady whose jeweled fingers are playing with the veil," that if she once pulls it down it "can never again be replaced to hide those she would unwittingly expose." And it notifies Mrs. Whitney that she is not fully qualified to speak on the subject. "There are other ladies in Washington," it significantly remarks, "who are much better authority on the main subject than any cabinet lady. There are people in the White House who are better authority on the main issue than any cabinet lady."

And all this stuff was a possession of the Mail and Express during the campaign, and not a word of it was given to the public. We cannot help thinking what would have happened if it had fallen into the hands of a Democratic journal—the Rochester Union and Advertiser for instance. It would have been scattered broadcast over the country, and possibly Mr. Cleveland would have been elected by the same support that elected Hill. For Cleveland was defeated, it will be remembered, because he was supposed to be "better than his party." The Mail and Express appears to have been in a position to prove that he was not.

But we appeal to the Mail and Express to empty its pigeon holes into the fire, and not to give away their contents under any provocation. If under the administration of Cleveland there has been an emulsion of the reigns of Nero and Caligula, or even of England's first two Georges, the fact should not go into the history of the country. Let all endeavor to bridge as quietly and decently as they can the little span of two months that remains between the present administration and one in the integrity and purity of which there universal faith.

THE INTERSTATE COMMERCE LAW.

The interstate commerce law was enacted to mollify the prejudices of two or three states in the West, in which the Granger element was strong, against the railroads. They had been discriminated against in the ship-michigan clause, as he could send his wheat to Chicago, paying freight upon it from his local point, and have it shipped there to New York cheaper than to ship it direct from his local station to the seaboard. He has found out his mistake. The effect of the law was to raise the through or "long haul" rates to correspond with the "short haul" rates, and the prices of the products of the whole section have to be forced down to meet the general increase.

Charles Francis Adams, one of the most competent and reliable railroad authorities in the country, explained the effects of the law upon railroad property in his address before the Boston Commercial Club last Saturday. He first referred to the inhibition of pooling in the act. Pooling had been practiced to keep the weaker railroads alive. The business was so divided that the least favored corporations had a share of the traffic. The abolition of pooling, he said, is grinding the smaller and local railroads out of existence or causing them to be absorbed into the few great systems into which the railroads of the country are rapidly crystallizing. The effect of the long and short haul clause is similar. Short roads do not have the long haul, which brings in the profit. Traffic, under the provision of the act, must inevitably seek the railroad having the long haul to the most distant and largest center. The smaller distributing points are in consequence being deprived of their markets, because those who formerly bought of them can get the same goods on better terms from the larger and more distant center. The old local system of distribution is so completely broken up that even Chicago, St. Louis and Cincinnati, which for a time derived a benefit from the law, are now being deserted for New York. The reason for this is obvious. Why should a merchant, say at Springfield, Ohio, who had formerly patronized Cincinnati, pay the long haul rate from New York to the latter city, and the short rate thence to Springfield, when he can get his goods direct from New York at a single rate?

If the law remains in existence the local roads and smaller distributing centers must be sacrificed. But this is not the only and perhaps not the greatest evil. The law is giving the transcontinental traffic wholly into the hands of the Canadian Pacific railroad, which is not trammeled by any interstate law, and is at liberty to fix its own rates.

The next Congress will probably amend the law if it does not repeal it entirely. Its present benefits appear to be confined wholly to the seven very respectable gentlemen who constitute the Interstate Commerce Commission, and manage to absorb something over $100,000 per year for expenses, in addition to their salaries of $7,500 each.

A POSSIBLE ESCAPE FROM WAR.

It was announced yesterday that the Haytiens proposed to send the American steamer "Haytien Republic" home to New York or some other American port before the war vessels Galena and Yantic could cast anchor at Port au Prince and open their guns on her. Secretary Bayard was pleased with the news, as everybody expected he would be, for the Secretary was never noted for belligerency. He rejoices that "the government will be saved a coal bill, and that," he remarks, "is quite an item." Again economy takes the place of valor and patriotism.

But while the country, knowing Mr. Bayard so well, is not surprised at his gratification at being let out of the enterprise so easily, it will be astonished to learn that the officers of the Richmond, the third vessel on the war list, are happy. No sailing orders had been issued to the Richmond up to last night, and it was believed that the Navy Department would modify its orders and send her to the China station, where no gloomy cloud of war floats above the placid waters. The officers said they were glad, for they did not wish to go to Hayti. These officers were supposed to be burning for a chance to "go where glory waits for them." And it is probably their last chance for glory before the 4th of March.

Now does not Gen. Legitim deserve a vote of thanks for his peaceful interposition and prevention of bloodshed? He certainly has a very formidable armament, and might have made serious trouble for the outgoing administration. He has kindly managed to make it only ridiculous.

THEEFT OF CREDIT.

Lots of Money Saved if You Obtain from Running Bills.
[Interview with Dry Goods Dealer.]
I see that there are things about this ladies' shopping trip of ours that you do not know. Let me explain them. You see, we have two kinds of customers—cash and credit. For the cash customers we take no risks and grant no favors. For the credit customers we do almost any and everything they ask of us. We are glad to get these orders, and make every effort to swell their number. Some houses take note of where purchases are sent, and whenever a fashionable address appears on their shipping books write the lady at that address of our bill to put her name on the credit list. Other houses, like ours, dislike to force trade, and simply wait until such a lady asks a favor of a day or a week's accommodation to pay for a heavy purchase, or else comes and asks in plain terms to be allowed to run a bill here. Then, though she does not know how eager we are, we jump to accommodate her.

"A lady who has a bill at our store spends all the way from 50 per cent to 500 per cent more than if she hadn't. Not only does she pay everything she wants at this store where she has a bill, passing all the rest every day, but she buys things she does not always want and can not always afford. You need not laugh; men do the same thing. We are glad to get men to run bills here as well as women. It was only yesterday that a gentleman told me that he had never been thoroughly well dressed until we let him run an account with us. He used to take to part with money for things he could possibly do without, but now he has dressing gowns, pajamas, silk hose, scarfs, a plenty, and the Lord knows what more. He says that when he gets our bill once a quarter, or he is always pushed into doing some extra piece of work—he is an artist—in order to get extra money to meet this expense. He is different from most men because he says that spending money causes him to make money, since he is driven to earn a great deal more than he spends each time our bill comes in. But the ladies can not do that, you say. No, they simply fight it out or coax it out of their husbands."

PUBLIC OPINION.

If Canada is to be annexed to the United States it should be a leap-year business. Canada should pose the question herself. Mr. Buttworth is out of order.—Philadelphia Record.

Rabbi Solomon Schindler received the largest vote of any candidate for the Boston school committee, Protestants and Catholics alike voting for him with practical unanimity, and the evidence of toleration and good sense is very gratifying.—Providence Journal.

Thibault which has passed the lower branch of the south Carolina Legislature, levying a tax of twenty-five cents a ton on all cotton seed brought into the state from other states, is a picturesque attempt to revive the old state's rights doctrine in its most revolutionary aspect. Even if it should become a law it wouldn't stand before the Supreme Court of the United States ten minutes. It is an interesting bit of Boerism, however, coming from a state which less than a fortnight ago voted for free trade materials.—Philadelphia Press.

SPECIAL BUSINESS NOTICES.

For young ladies who are troubled with freckles, pimples, moths and tan and a bad skin generally to use liquid paints or dry powders, for they only make the skin look well for the time being. To have a good complexion you must have pure blood. Use Sulphur Lint and your skin will be fair and complexion rose.—Young Ladies Magazine.

Says the Mail and Express: "For weeks before the election we pigeon holed a verified mass of information on this subject, which we were vainly urged to publish, giving names, dates, houses, nights, hours, conversations, intrigues, carriages, negotiators, liaisons, bon companions, ruins, suicides, in regard to various persons now and lately high in national official life, which would shock the country and cover their principals with ineradicable pitch." The paper further asserts that the nature of its pigeon-holed newspaper "has long been well understood in Kingston and New York. It has been hidden by the gallantry of the Republican press, but a character for the guilty can not be established at the expense of the guileless." And it warns Mrs. Whitney, "the charming lady whose jeweled fingers are playing with the veil, that if she once pulls it down it can never again be replaced to hide those she would unwittingly expose." The bill which has passed the lower branch of the South Carolina Legislature, levying a tax of twenty-five cents a ton on all cotton seed brought into the state from other states, is a picturesque attempt to revivify the old state's rights doctrine in its most revolutionary aspect. Even if it should become a law it wouldn't stand before the Supreme Court of the United States ten minutes. It is an interesting bit of Bourbonism, however, coming from a state which has been so long ago voted for free raw material.—Philadelphia Press.

Governor Foraker and the "White Caps" of Ohio—Denise of Dr. Scott—The Recent Narrow Escape of the Czar of Russia—Ticks.

By Telegram to the Freeman.

COLUMBUS, O., Dec. 17.—Governor Foraker said last night that a detective had been among the "White Caps" since the first report of their outrages in this State, and that the names of all members and the secrets of the order had been secured with such other evidence as would bring any offender to justice. He said none of the members had been summoned to his office, but several of them had come voluntarily, being frightened by the possibility of prosecution, and the result of their visit was that the organization had been permanently abandoned.

The Governor said the White Caps were a regularly organized secret body, but that they had an association with the organization of White Caps in Indiana. They were divided into lodges, and the entire order was under a general officer, known as a Colonel. There were nine lodges in Ohio, with a membership of 1,000, among whom were many of the best citizens and communities in which they were organized.

A VICTIM OF THE "WHITE CAPS."

KANSAS CITY, Dec. 17.—James McDonald, who was criminally beaten last Monday by the White Caps, died yesterday.

THE NEWS IN BUSY ONEONTA.

A New Normal School—An Art Company—Wants to be a City.

The Bogardus Art Company has decided to locate in Oneonta, this place. Representatives of the company were in town recently and satisfactory arrangements concluded.

The only business failure of any note which has occurred in a long time was that of the knitting mill, of about a month ago. On December 15, the real estate and mortgages were bought by Congressman W. L. Brown, and the machinery, etc., by A. H. Burton, of Rome. All the machinery will remain here. Work will soon be resumed.

Work on the Normal School is progressing fast. The slaters are at work and the roof will soon be on. When finished it will be one of the most complete and elaborate structures of its kind in the State. It is prophesied that it will even be a rival to the State Normal School, at Albany, in patronage. It has the advantage of being centrally located, with a large area of country to draw from. Oneonta can well be proud of this institution.

While Thomas Hazen and Frank Hazen were hunting rabbits, near Greenwood Lake, one day recently, a glancing shot from Frank Hazen's gun struck Thomas in the eye, putting out its light.

The Glorious correspondent of THE FREEMAN writes: A sad accident occurred here on Saturday evening, resulting in the death of N. Carle, a bright little girl of about 5 years of age. Her father, Captain Frank Carle, of the large Harriet C. Wagon, had just before leaving the dock for the Roundabout, sent home a bundle of clothing in which was his loaded revolver. Mrs. Carle, in opening the bundle to dispose of the contents, came upon the revolver, in some unaccountable manner the weapon was discharged, and the child, who was standing by, fell to the floor, with the deadly 22 calibre bullet in her temple. Dr. Montgomery was called and came quickly, but he said the girl could not live. A conveyance was started at once to overtake Captain Carle at Roundabout, but before he reached home the little sufferer was dead, and he found the mother distracted with grief.

IN THE RELIGIOUS FIELD HERE.

Installation Services in the Spring-Street Lutheran Church—Personal Affairs of Rev. A. Schmidt—The Rev. H. Krading, of Poughkeepsie, the President of the Second, Third Districts of the Lutheran Ministerium, of New-York.

Before the services were begun the Rev. Mr. Krading preached on the theme—"Aims of the Holy Ministry in the Christian Congregation."

A large congregation assembled in the Roundout Presbyterian Church, last evening, to hear a sermon by the Rev. L. Magee, D. D. to young people, upon the necessity of personal purity. The Doctor took for his text words to be found in a portion of the twenty-second verse of the fifth chapter of First Timothy—"Neither be partaker of other men's sins. Keep thyself pure." The sermon was an eloquent and scholarly presentation of facts and lines of thought brought to bear upon a subject which is of importance to young people at all seasons of the year, but especially so as the holiday season approaches, when temptations present themselves in so many and various guises. The words of the preacher were attentively listened to.

NEWSPAPERS AND JOURNALISTS.

"The Freeman." Credit Book—Howard Jones, Editor and Proprietor.

The Port-Jervis Union issued an eight-page edition on Saturday. The Union is entering.

The Journalist, New-York City, proposes to devote an issue early in January to women who are engaged in journalism.

The leading New-York newspapers quoted liberally from the columns of THE FREEMAN yesterday. A story about a precocious little boy in Poughkeepsie was copied in the New-York World and in the New-York Times.

The last named newspaper gave credit for stories. The New-York Tribune gave credit for a Catskill Mountain wild cat tale. In all 11 Sunday newspapers gave credits to THE FREEMAN. During the past seven days this newspaper received news credits in 129 publications, received at this office. As there are several thousands of newspapers published in the United States, which are not received in exchange by THE FREEMAN, but which copy credits from newspapers like the Times, World, Sun and Tribune, it is fair to presume that the number of articles copied from THE FREEMAN exceeds 129. To date THE FREEMAN'S credit book shows that 4,029 stories have been copied during the year 1888. This is a record that this little country daily feels very proud of. To the gentlemen who sit at the exchange desks: "Many thanks."

"Journalism" was the title of a lecture delivered before the Young Men's Society for Ethical Culture by Joseph Howard, Jr., in the rooms of the Workingmen's School, 109 West Fifty-fourth-street, Saturday evening. The lecture touched upon a little of everything, even including the labor question and the proper management of the under dog in a fight. The audience was often convulsed with laughter as Mr. Howard wandered at large through the broad fields of general knowledge and related bits of personal experience. He graphically related the health experiences during the draft riots, his intimacy with President Lincoln, his escape as an impromptu choir boy in Trinity Church at the time of Gen. Philip Kearny's funeral, when he managed to obtain entrance to the church by donning a white robe, and several other interesting episodes. He incidentally remarked that the journalism of the present is far different from that of the past. The reporter he deemed the all-important element of a good newspaper, and to be a good reporter the four required qualities were: Good address, a knowledge of human nature, industry and loyalty. The power of the press and its opportunity are greater today, he thought, than ever in directing public opinion and bringing relief to the wronged and oppressed.—New-York Times.

An Incident at the Academy of Music.

"Just let me take a look through that thing, will you?" said a rural-looking individual, to a gentleman who had been looking through an opera-glass, at the Academy of Music, this City, last Friday night.

"Certainly," said the gentleman addressed, handing the glass to the farmer, who immediately placed the glass wrong end first to his eyes.

"How do you work this thing?" said he. After being shown, the farmer gazed long and audibly murmured words of admiration, some of which were more amusing than elegant.

Passing the glass to his wife he said: "Mary just yer take a look at the weemen folks and see how funny their mouths look when they are singing." Mary, after looking some time, expressed the opinion that some of the girls had false teeth, they were so white and even.

"Jake," said she, "you should have one of these glasses so you could watch the hired man when he is at work in the 10-acre lot."

"Jake" thought so too, and, turning to the owner of the price, asked the price.

On being told—$20—he passed the glass back to the owner with the remark: "They come high, but like moving machines and patent churns, we must have one. I reckon it will pay for itself in a year."

A QUESTION OF TAXATION.

THAT INTERESTS BONDED AND NON-BONDED TOWNS.

What was Said Before the Ulster County Board of Supervisors, on Saturday, In Reference to the Bill Brought Against the Co. Treasurer.

"To be decided in the courts."

During the session of the Ulster County Board of Supervisors, on Saturday, Supervisor Woolsey made a motion that the towns bonded for railroads, which have brought actions against the Board and Ulster County Treasurer to recover taxes paid in those towns by railroads, that the non-bonded towns be authorized to defend such action in the name of the Board and of the County Treasurer, but at their own cost, including taxable costs and expenses.

Several of the Supervisors spoke, after which counsel for the bonded and non-bonded towns were invited to give their views in relation to the question.

A. T. Clearwater, representing the non-bonded towns, said: "This litigation is perhaps the most important and far-reaching which has, as yet, been begun in Ulster County. So far as it proceeds it will go on, and it is shown a spirit of the utmost fairness on the part of the representatives of the towns that were bonded to aid in the construction of the railroads, and an equal spirit of fairness and kindly feeling on the part of the towns not bonded. It is highly important that the question at issue should be determined by the court of last resort. It is also extremely important that the litigation should go on without interruption between the towns representing different sides. It is impossible for her to rest her back against the back of any seat of ordinary construction. This disability accounts for most of the severe backaches in women."

One of the latest as well as the best things from Spurgeon is his reply to the question, "What a man ought to do with his money?" to a brass band. "Yes, I think he might; but it would be a very difficult matter for his next door neighbor to be a Christian."

The French master in art, M. Hector De-Roy, best known perhaps in the United States by the "The Great Turret" in the Corcoran gallery in Washington, prefers women to men as pupils. He says they are more thorough. Pre-eminence is given to American women for "strength of touch."

"The History of Ancient Kingston," by Marius Schoonmaker, is a volume of 558 pages. Mr. Schoonmaker has dedicated the history to the Holland Society, of New-York City. The frontispiece is a copy of a sketch of Kingston and the Catskill Mountains, made in 1819, by John Vanderlyn. The work contains 26 illustrations. Among the names of the members of the Court House, Tappan House, Executive Chamber, 1777; Senate House, 1777; Assembly Chamber, 1777; Bogardus House, where the Council of Safety met, 1777; Elmendorf House, VanSteenburgh House, which was the first of the new revolution. The book contains a compact history of the place from its first settlement to the year 1820, which embraces the whole of the interesting era of its distinctively Dutch character. The author says: "In a strict sense, the history of Kingston, from that day that Kingston occupied such an important position in the country at large, and in the military and civil events that preceded the war for independence, and also in that great contest, that its history during the colonial times, to be fully understood and elucidated, draws with it a great deal of the provincial history."

KINGSTON PHILHARMONIC FESTIVAL.

Highly Complimented by Newspapers of National Reputation—The "Herald."

The late festival of the Kingston Philharmonic Society is being highly complimented by newspapers of national reputation. The New-York Herald, of Sunday, said this:

"The Kingston musical festival, which proved most successful, closed with a fine execution of 'The Creation.' The soloists were Mrs. Fursch-Madl, Mlle. Augusta Olmstrom, George J. Parker and Mrs. W. Whittey. Carl Zerrinda was the conductor, and Mrs. M. D. Shepard was the accompanist. Much interest centered in Mlle. Olmstrom, who made her debut on this occasion in America, and who sang in English for the first time in public. She is a Swedish, of rare talent, build and of pleasant manners. She has sung at the Pas de Loup concerts in Paris and at the Royal Opera at Stockholm."

The Poughkeepsie Eagle says: "The Musical Festival of the Kingston Philharmonic Society has proved a decided success."

In Surrogate's Court.

A colored man in New-Paltz, named Fulton Cox, died a short time ago, leaving a small amount of property. Cox had been a prominent member of the M. E. Zion Church, and later on a member of the M. E. Church there. From information given by Cox it was understood that he intended to go to a portion of the money to "the church." After his death, as he had been a member of both churches, much interest was manifested by church people as to which church he had made the bequest. The will was admitted to probate in the Ulster County Surrogate's Court, Kingston, N. Y. By the estate is given to Jane Cox, the widow, during her life. The will also contains the clause that she can "use it [the money] if necessary." After her death whatever remains is given to the Methodist Episcopal Church.

The 120th Regiment Monument.

The members of the Monumental Committee of the One Hundred and Twentieth New-York State Volunteers, at the meeting held in Kingston, on Saturday, decided to adopt for a monument, to be placed on the battlefield of Gettysburg, the design of a castellated tower of Quincy granite, surmounted by the diamond badge of the Third Regiment, and to cost $2,500. The monument will be completed this winter, and some time during the spring or summer of 1889 will be conveyed to the Gettysburg battlefield, placed near the Peach Orchard, the scene of the sanguinary conflict of the battle of the second day, and dedicated with appropriate ceremonies. The monument will be 26 feet high, and its peculiar form will make it one of the most striking and picturesque on the field.

Runaway at Marlborough.

A horse owned by John Buckley ran away from the Star Mills there, on Saturday afternoon. Several wagons were coming and going up and down Landing-street at the time. Edward J. Wygant and wife were going down before their horse could be restrained to the side of the roadway, the runaway nag dashed into them, overturning their carriage. Mr. Wygant was hurled over the dash of his wagon and Mrs. Wygant was thrown to the ground. Further down the street, the animal dashed into the wagon being driven by James Shaw, tearing away a part of the rear wheels of the vehicle. Mr. and Mrs. Wygant were cared for by friends who were passing.

CHAT FOR AND ABOUT WOMEN.

Contributed to "The Freeman" by Mrs. T. C. Albertson, of Highland, Ulster County, has contributed the following to THE FREEMAN:

There are now about 40 ordained women ministers in the Universalist Church.

Miss Lydia Mann, sister of Horace Mann, now her nineteenth year, but still interested in all reforms, is about to join a Suffrage League organized in Westbury, R. I., recently.

Mrs. Nathan Appleton, of Boston, is at the head of a movement to raise funds for a statue of Washington, to be presented to the French Government by the women of America.

"How many of you girls, if you were 21 and could vote, would go to the polls to-morrow?" inquired a teacher in one of our high schools, wishing to test the strength of woman suffrage sentiment. Twenty-eight out of a class of 28 eagerly raised their hands.

The woman with a large bustle can never sit down in a natural position. It is absolutely impossible for her to rest her back against the back of any seat of ordinary construction. This disability accounts for most of the severe backaches in women."

One of the latest as well as the best things from Spurgeon is his reply to the question, "What a man ought to do with his money?" to a brass band. "Yes, I think he might; but it would be a very difficult matter for his next door neighbor to be a Christian."

The French master in art, M. Hector De-Roy, best known perhaps in the United States by the "The Great Turret" in the Corcoran gallery in Washington, prefers women to men as pupils. He says they are more thorough. Pre-eminence is given to American women for "strength of touch."

A HEAVY FOG.

If the old adage that "a winter's fog will freeze a dog," is verified, then there will be many frozen canines in this city some time in the near future. At about 4 o'clock this morning fog began to gather, and two hours later it was so dense that objects could not be discerned at a short distance away. The steam passenger yacht, the steamboat "City of Kingston," plying between Roundout and Esderville, were run slowly.

The Glasgow correspondent of THE FREEMAN writes: A sad accident occurred here on Saturday evening, resulting in the death of N. Carie, a bright little girl of about 5 years of age. Her father, Thomas Carie, of the village of Harriet C. Washburn, had just been leaving the dock for the Roundout town, sent home a bundle of clothing in which was a loaded revolver. Mrs. Carie, in the excitement of the moment, took the bundle to dispose of the contents, came upon the revolver, and in handling it, before putting it away, in some unaccountable manner the weapon was discharged, and the child, who was standing by, fell to the floor with the deadly 22 calibre bullet in her temple. Dr. Montgomery was called and came quickly, but he said the girl could not live. A conveyance was started at once to overtake Captain Carie at Roundout, but before he reached home the little sufferer was dead, and he found the mother distracted with grief.

Installation Services in the Spring-Street Lutheran Church—Personal Party.

The Spring-Street Lutheran Church Roundout, was crowded last night, with people to witness the installation of the Rev. J. S. Schindler. The ceremonies were conducted by the Rev. H. Kraling, of Poughkeepsie, the President of the Second and Third Districts of the Lutheran Ministerium, New York. Before the services were begun the Rev. Mr. Kraling preached on the theme—"Aims of the Holy Ministry in the Christian Congregation."

A large congregation assembled in the Roundout Presbyterian Church, last evening, to hear a sermon by the Rev. J. I. Magee, D. D., to young people, upon the necessity of personal purity. The Doctor took for his text words to be found in a portion of the twenty-second verse of the fifth chapter of First Timothy—"Neither be partaker of other men's sins. Keep thyself pure." The sermon was an eloquent and scholarly presentation of facts and figures, which is of importance to young people at all seasons of the year, but especially so on the holiday season approach, when temptations present themselves in so many and various guises. The words of the preacher were attentively listened to.

A QUESTION OF TAXATION.

THAT INTERESTS BONDED AND NON-BONDED TOWNS.

What was Said Before the Utter County Board of Supervisors, on Saturday, In Reference to the Suit Brought Against the Co. Treasurer.

"To be decided in the courts."

During the session of the Utter County Board of Supervisors, on Saturday, Supervisor Woolsey made a motion that the towns bonded for railroads, which have brought actions against the Board and Utter County Treasurer to recover taxes paid in those towns by railroads, that the non-bonded towns be authorized to defend such action in the name of the Board and of the County Treasurer, but at their own cost, including taxable costs and expenses.

Several of the Supervisors spoke, after which counsel for the bonded and non-bonded towns were invited to give their views in relation to the matter.

Weather Indications.
WASHINGTON, Dec. 17.—Indications for
Tuesday: Rain, followed by fair, colder
weather.

A VERY SIGNIFICANT THREAT.

All friends of decency could wish that the new assortment of Cleveland scandals might be consigned to the heap of political rubbish that the public cheerfully commits to the flames after election. This might have happened if the New York Times had not stirred it up. The Times, however, had the fairness to admit that the scandals were of Democratic origin, a very proper way of disposing of them, for it would have left the quarrel to the Democrats exclusively as to whether Cleveland was defeated by these scandals or his free trade message. Not till Mrs. Whitney took occasion to speak was there any intimation that a part of the blame might be laid upon Republican shoulders. That lady charged that both Senator Ingalls and Chauncey M. Depew had repeated them. These gentlemen have uttered denials that are certainly as unqualified as positive as can be made, and Ingalls has further challenged the veracity of her conduct. But these denials and counter-claims pale into insignificance before the challenge of the New York Mail and Express, whose editor is Col. Elliott F. Shepard, a member of the Vanderbilt family. The Mail and Express is thoroughly angry at Mrs. Whitney's charges, and threatens new developments if further attempt is made to implicate Republicans. In this attempt to "unwar-rantably scatter dirt" is renewed, it proposes to draw upon its pigeon holes. "They must call off their dogs or we may let our tigers," is its ominous language. "The charming lady of one of the Secretaries, good soul, could not know of these social crimes if they existed, and her denial is as valuable in respect to them as the denial of Maudslayi, sen's servant that his master ever said, because he never saw him call." And here is the sort of stuff which it has on hand and proposes to produce if too much freedom is allowed the Democratic "dogs." Says the Mail and Express: "For weeks before the election we pigeon-holed a verified mass of information on this subject, which we were vainly urged to publish, giving names, dates, houses, nights, hours, conversations, intrigues, carriages, negotiators, liaisons, boon companions, ruins, suicides, in regard to various persons now and lately high in national official life, which would shock the country and cover their principals with ineradicable filth." The paper further asserts that the nature of its pigeon-holed budget "has long been well understood in Newspaper Row at Washington, in parts of Cincinnati and New York. It has been hidden by the gallantry of the Republican press, but a character for the guilty can not be established at the expense of the guileless." And it warns Mrs. Whitney, "the charming lady whose jeweled fingers are playing with the veil, that if she once pulls it down it can never again be replaced to hide those she would unwittingly expose." And it notifies Mrs. Whitney that she is not fully qualified to speak on the subject. "There are other ladies in Washington," it significantly remarks, "who are much better authority on the main subject than any cabinet lady. There are people in the White House who are better authority on the main issue than any cabinet lady."

And all this stuff was a possession of the Mail and Express during the campaign, and not a word of it was given to the public. We cannot help thinking what would have happened if it had fallen into the hands of a Democratic journal—the Rochester Union and Advertiser for instance. It would have been scattered broadcast over her country, and possibly Mr. Cleveland would have been elected by the same support that elected Hill. For Cleveland was defeated, it will be remembered, because he was supposed to be "better than his party." The Mail and Express appears to have been in a position to prove that he was not.

But we speak to the Mail and Express to empty its pigeon holes into the fire, and not to give away their contents under any pretense. If under the administration of Cleveland there has been an emulation of the reigns of Nero and Caligula, or even of England's first two Georges, the fact should not go into the history of the country. Let all endeavor to bridge as quietly and decently as they can the little span of two months that remains between the present administration and one in the integrity and purity of which there universal faith.

THE INTERSTATE COMMERCE LAW.

The interstate commerce law was enacted to mollify the prejudices of two or three states in the West, in which the Granger element was strong, against the railroads. They had been discriminated against in the ship-Michigan class. They could send their wheat to Chicago, paying freight, and then thence to New York cheaper than to ship it direct from his local station to the seaport. He has found out his mistake. The effect of the law was to raise the through or "long haul" rates to correspond with the "short haul" rates, and the prices of the products of the whole section have to be forced down to meet the general increase.

Charles Francis Adams, one of the most competent and reliable railroad authorities in the country, explained the effects of the law upon railroad property in his address before the Boston Commercial Club last Saturday. He first referred to the inhibition of pooling in the act. Pooling had been practiced to keep the weaker railroads alive. The business was so divided that the least favored corporations had a share of the traffic. The abolition of pooling, he said, is grinding the smaller and local railroads out of existence or causing them to be absorbed into the few great systems into which the railroads of the country are rapidly crystallizing. The effect of the long and short haul clause is similar. Short roads do not have the long haul, which brings in the profit. Inevitably, under the provision of the act, must inevitably seek the railroad having the long haul to the most distant and largest center. The smaller distributing points are in consequence being deprived of their markets, because those who formerly bought of them can get the same goods on better terms from the larger and more distant center. The old local system of distribution is so completely broken up that even Chicago, St. Louis and Cincinnati, which for a time derived a benefit from the law, are now being deserted for New York. The reason for this is obvious. Why should a merchant, say at Springfield, Ohio, who had formerly patronized Cincinnati, pay the long haul rate from New York to the latter city, and the short rate thence to Springfield, when he can get his goods direct from New York at a single rate?

If the law remains in existence the local roads and smaller distributing centers must be sacrificed. But this is not the only and perhaps the greatest evil. The law is giving the transcontinental traffic wholly into the hands of the Canadian Pacific railroad, which is not trammeled by any interstate law, and is at liberty to fix its own rates.

The next Congress will probably amend the law if it does not repeal it entirely. Its present benefits appear to be confined wholly to the seven very powerful gentlemen who constitute the Interstate Commerce Commission, and manage to absorb something over $100,000 per year for expenses, in addition to their salaries of $7,500 each.

A POSSIBLE ESCAPE FROM WAR.

It was announced yesterday that the Haytiens proposed to send the American steamer "Haytian Republic" home to New York or some other American port before the war vessel Galea and Yantic could cast anchor at Port au Prince and open their guns on her. Secretary Bayard was pleased with the news, as every-expected he would be, for the Secretary was never noted for belligerency. He rejoices that "the government will be saved a coal bill, and that," he remarks, "is quite an item." Again exclaims he takes the place of valor and patriotism.

But while the country, knowing Mr. Bayard so well, is not surprised at his gratification at being let out of the enterprise so easily, it will be astonished to learn that the officers of the Richmond, the third vessel on the war list, are happy. No sailing orders had been issued to the Richmond up to last night, and it was believed that the Navy Department would modify its orders and send her to the China station, where no gloomy cloud of war floats above the placid waters. The officers said they were glad for they did not wish to go to Hayti. These officers were supposed to be burning for a chance to "go where glory waits them." And it is probably their last chance for glory before the 4th of March.

Now does not Gen. Legitim deserve a vote of thanks for his peaceful interposition and prevention of bloodshed? He certainly has a very formidable argument, and might have made serious trouble for the outgoing administration. He has kindly managed to make it only ridiculous.

THE EFFECT OF CREDIT.

Lots of Money Saved if You Abstain from Running Bills.
(Interview with Dry Goods Dealer.)
I see that there are things about this ladies' shopping trade of ours that you do not know. Let me explain them. You see, we have two kinds of customers—cash and credit. For the cash customers we take no risks and grant no favors. For the credit customers we do almost any and everything they ask of us. We are glad to get them and make every effort to swell their number. Some ladies take note of where purchases are sent, and whenever a fashionable article appears on their shopping books write the lady at that address offering to put her name on the credit list. Other ladies, like ours, dislike to force that trade, and simply wait until such a lady asks a favor of a day or a week's accommodation to pay for a heavy purchase, or else comes and asks in plain terms to be allowed to run a bill here. Then, though she does not know how eager we are, we jump to accommodate her.

"A lady who has a bill at our store spends all the way from 50 per cent to 500 per cent more than if she had not. Not only does she pay everything she wants at this store where she has a bill, but passing all the rest every day, but she buys things she does not always want and can not always afford. You need not laugh; men do the same thing. We are glad to get men to do our business as well as women. It was only yesterday that a gentleman told me that he had never been thoroughly well dressed until we let him run an account with us. He used to hate to part with money for things he could possibly do without, but now he has dressing gowns, pajamas, silk hose, scarfs, a plenty, and the Lord knows what not. He says that when he gets his bill once a quarter or he is always pushed into doing some extra piece of work—he is an artist—in order to get extra money to meet this expense. He is different from most men because he says that spending money causes him to make money, since he is driven to earn a great deal more than he spends each year our bill comes in. But the ladies can not do that, you say. No, they simply fight it out or coax it out of their husbands."

PUBLIC OPINION.

IN AND ABOUT THIS TOWN.

WHAT PEOPLE FOUND TO TALK ABOUT HERE TO-DAY.

The Roundout Boats to Continue Running.—In the Religious Field—Fatal Accident at Glaseo—An Incident in the Academy of Music.

There arose even with the sun a well of dark clouds before his face, which shortly, like ink poured into water, had blacked over the face of heaven.

BOATS AND BOATMEN HEREBABOUT.

The "City of Kingston" and the "Haldwin" to Continue Running.—The steam passenger yacht "L. D. Black" was "laid up" for the season on Saturday.

The cement boat E. M. Brigham sunk in the basin of the Delaware & Hudson Canal, at Edenville, Saturday.

The Delaware & Hudson Canal Company will have built at its boat yard here and along the line of the canal, during the winter about 50 new boats.

The steamboat Valentine, of the Cornell Steamboat Company's Line, was launched from the boat-yard stocks at Newburgh, on Saturday night.

The steamboat Oswego, which ran on a rock and sunk in the Hudson River, near Esopus, on Friday night, was put on dry dock in New-York City, yesterday, for repairs.

BOATS AT NEWBURGH.

There will be much work for ship carpenters and caulkers at Newburgh this winter. Among the many vessels that will winter there are the tugboats, Pocahontas, Oceola, Victoria, Ellen M. Rowan, Saranac and Kenauk, the steamboat "City of Hudson," the tugboat "Annex and St. Remy," launch Benjamin Hamner, cutters Deland and Tomboy, steam yachts Adella and Mystic, tugboat John Roy, the little propeller Lotta, dredging machine Kinderhook and the pile driver Samson.

ROUNDOUT BOATS STILL RUNNING.

Owing to the mild change in the weather the owners of the steamboat "James W. Baldwin" and steamer "City of Kingston" have concluded to keep their boats on the route between Roundout and New-York City for a while longer, before the "City of Kingston" will make its last trip to-night, as has been announced.

A HEAVY FOG.

If the old adage that "a winter's fog will freeze a day," is verified, then there will be many frozen canines in this city some time in the near future. At about 4 o'clock this morning fog began to gather, and two hours later it was so dense that objects could not be discerned at short distance away. The steam passenger yachts of the Halber Steamboat Company, plying between Roundout and Edenville, were run slowly.

MISSING TO A NEW SCHOONER.

By Telegram to the Freeman.
GLOUCESTER, Mass., Dec. 17.—The fishing schooner Ethel Maude, from Gloucester, arrived to-day having on board J. F. Davis, who reports he was a passenger and part owner of the new five-masted schooner Governor Ames, from Wadsworth for Baltimore. On Sunday the Ames sailed from Round Point and Tuesday night, 10 miles south of Cape Cod, it was discovered that the vessel was lost, and all the rest of its masts went by the board and drifted until the anchors were let go and it brought up in 20 fathoms.
